The clock which was wound with your enrollment as a freshman has all but run down, for now your journey through college is complete, you must journey forward individually.

The hands of the clock pointed to your Leadership, and you piloted us well. The hands pointed to Awards, and we applauded; to Senior corner, and we laughed; to the Senior Ball, and we bowed.

Now the hands indicate that soon you will leave us. We will see your Graduation and be sad, yet joyous, for we have had the opportunity of knowing you—the Seniors!

Now When a Senior Girl
Walks Down the Street . . .

Your journey through college is nearing a close now and the hands of the clock point past the half hour. They point to what must be done: the unending studies, heavier than before; the ever-present year-book to think about; the sister class to become fast friends with; and the last hand of bridge at one o'clock in the morning.

The hands point to the Conlee-Kent Cup, to the Junior Prom, to the Lantern Drill; and before the year is gone, the hands move once more to show your true friendships—and you smile, knowing you are—the Juniors!

The Junior Smoker, Come Over,
We'll Sing you a Tune . . .

Class of '57

Your journey through college is beginning to gather momentum now, and the hands of the clock are moving steadily onward.

The hands take on a green hue as Initiation begins, then turn to rose as friendships are formed.

Along your journey, you pause for your Project, and your Dance. You pride yourself on their results. Rush parties, pledge ribbons, and society pins are something new.

The hands of the clock tell you that you are now upperclassmen, and urge you to keep in mind that you are midway in your journey. Look ahead, for you are—the Sophomores!

THE INITIATION COMMITTEE

Sophomores Go Buzzing By . . .

You have taken your place on the busy timetable of college life. The wheels of the clock are wound as you begin your four-year journey.

The hands point to the bewilderment of those first few weeks of school, then to an unquestioning acceptance as Initiation looms into view.

Slowly, they move to your Project, your Dance, and the hidden talent and the creative art which make you proud of your classmates manifest themselves.

The hands point to studies, new interests, new friends, new responsibilities. They guide you—the Freshmen!

DESTINATION

We believe that every journey must have a destination, and we would like to make our own the fulfillment of our highest ideals: Knowledge, Faith and Service.

The words of such a motto can never become meaningful, however, until they are exemplified in our lives. Here at Mac Murray our quest for Knowledge, our striving for Faith, and our desire to be of Service to others are symbolized through the selection of three members of the Senior Class who are not only living examples of the words in our motto but also representatives of those unnamed others who have journeyed with them and not lost their way.
